New Coach Will Come to City
This Month or Early in January

Chet Wynne, present football coach at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, last night accepted the position as head football coach at the University, which was offered him a few days ago.

Coach Wynne, in a long distance telephone message to Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, chairman of the athletic council, said that he would come to Lexington late in December, as he returns from the national football coaches meeting in Chicago, which will be held the day after Christmas.

No disclosure of whom he will appoint as his assistants was made, but the newly appointed mentor is expected to name his assistants when he comes to Lexington, the last of the month. Doctor Funkhouser announced that a three-year contract had been agreed to, but that the exact terms had not been definitely agreed upon.

Wynne has been coach at Auburn for three seasons and has raised the Plainsmen from the worst team in the conference to one of the top-notch aggregations in the southland.

Starting with practically no material, Wynne's team went through the 1932 season without a set-back, although they suffered a 21-21 tie with the South Carolina Gamecocks, and were co-champions of Southern conference, with the Tennessee Vols. His teams have all been able to score and have always had a fine offense.

CATS DOWN HERD

Ruppmen Are Slow in First Half, but Hit Stride
in Second Period
of Game

DEMOISEY IS HIGHEST

After a rather doubtful start, Coach Adolph Rupp's Wildcat basketball team found themselves in the closing minutes of the first half to defeat the Green Herd of Marshall college by a score of 48 to 28 last night in the Alumni gymnasium.

Starting off with a bang, the Cats scored as the game opened as "Slip" Jerome dropped in a pot shot and DeMoisey made a free-wheeling shot and followed a moment later with a crisp. After their opening burst of power, the Cats' play grew sluggish and the Herd drew within one point of them as Donohue and Gill counted from the field and Kinkaid and Gill cashed in on a couple of free throws.

For several minutes the play was close, but DeMoisey, Lawrence, and Davis found the range and the Big Blue drew away to lead 19-13, with four minutes to go. Kinkaid hit two fouls before the Cats again found the range, and Captain "Twisty" DeMoisey dropped in a follow-up shot. Davis hit a sleeper and Dave Lawrence made two field goals and a foul to put the Cats on top 28-15 as the first half ended.

The Wildcats were still clicking with the beginning of the second half, and after DeMoisey had sunk # foul, Jack Tucker hit three field goals in succession to boost the count to 36-17. Lawrence and Davis each added a bucket and then, with the count at 39 to 20, Coach Rupp began to substitute freely and soon had an entire new team on the floor. The subs continued to score, but just as the game closed Marshall staged a slight flare and counted on two fouls and a long shot by Proide.

LAFFOON'S AIM TO BUILD SUPER
HIGHWAY NOTED

Construction of Road from Lexington to Mammoth
Cave Is Plan

PROJECT WOULD GIVE
WORK TO 40,000 MEN

Would Be Built Largely with Federal Funds, Governor
Tells Audience

The completion within his term of office of a four-lane highway, approximately 140 miles long, connecting Lexington, Louisville, and Mammoth Cave, was announced as the objective of Gov. Ruby Laffoon, at the banquet meeting of the State Park convention which was held Wednesday in Memorial hall. Funds for the construction would be obtained largely from the Federal government, he said.

The construction of such a highway would put approximately 40,000 men to work and would bring, in tourist revenue, more new money into the state than the sale of tobacco, Governor Laffoon indicated. The program was arranged by Mrs. Emma Guy Cromwell, director of state parks, who manages activities within the state parks. Dean W. S. Taylor, College of Education gave the welcoming address. Dr. Frank L. McVey presided at the sessions.

Invocation at this session was given by Bishop Almon Abbott. Speakers on the program were Herbert Evinson, Washington, D. C., administrator of 238 C.C.C. camps; Colonel Richard Lieber, Indianapolis, president of the National Association of State Parks; F. A. Willis, Paris; Miss Emma Guy Cromwell, director of state parks; Robert W. Hoffman; Mrs. Robert Vaughn; and Dr. W. D. Funkhouser.

Vandenbosch Has
Book Published

"The Dutch East Indies, Its Government, Problems, and Politics," is the title of a 385 page volume just published under the authorship of Dr. Amory Vandenbosch, professor and acting head of the Department of Political Science.

The book is from the press of William B. Eerdmans, Grand Rapids, and is a study of the extraordinary developments which have taken place in this insular empire during the past few decades. This volume is noteworthy because it brings within relatively short compass the significant factors and developments in Dutch East Indian policy, the unique policies of Dutch colonial policy, the rise of nationalistic movement, and the problems which the Dutch are facing in their large colonial empire in the tropical East. Doctor Vandenbosch spent a year in Holland and in the Dutch East Indies, studying Dutch Colonial policy as a fellow of the social science research council.

"The Neutrality of the Netherlands During the World War," was his first book.

Intramural Contests Become Intense

By J. B. WELLS

You nasty man! Don't ever do that!

Such are the sounds heard on Stoll field when the fraternities get together clad in the ultra-modern football equipment issued by the Intramural department to play for good old Odium Stigma and for that shiny new Intramural football trophy. Such aggressiveness and display of brute strength as is shown in this "tourney of the Roarsters" is seldom seen on the gridiron. Sigma Alpha Epsilon put Lambda Chi Alpha out of the contest Wednesday, and is throwing remarks right and left, which, as far as we can discern, indicates that they expect to dethrone the champions of the second bracket. Time will tell and the time will be December 18, Saturday afternoon, at 4 o'clock.

Much can be said about the way the teams "carry on" and "carry

Many Noted Speakers Heard
by Legislative Body
in Conference

The pre-session conference of Kentucky legislators, held under the auspices of the American Legislators' association, was concluded here Wednesday afternoon after a two-day meeting.

Dr. Frank L. McVey welcomed the legislators at their opening meeting Tuesday morning in McVey hall. Senator E. D. Stephenson, Pikeville, who presided at the first meeting, introduced William K. Belknap, Ooshen, Ky., president of the American Legislators' association. Mr. Belknap said that the six main problems before the next legislature are: liquor control, the educational emergency, finances, county, city, and state debts, emergency relief measures, and governmental reorganization.

Leonard V. Harrison, New York, chief of staff of the Bureau of Social Hygiene, discussed the liquor control problem. He recently has made a survey of the various systems of control in European countries and compared them to those used in this country.

James H. Richmond, state superintendent of public instruction, addressed the conference on the school situation of Kentucky. He said that all the schools in Kentucky are open, which is more than can be said for many other states.

Other speakers of the Tuesday morning session were Allen J. Maxwell, state commissioner of revenue of North Carolina, who told how the sales tax has succeeded in that state; James W. Cammack, of the state department of Education, who discussed the report of the Kentucky Education commission; and Prof. James W. Martin, of the University, who spoke on "Taxation."

Gov. Ruby Laffoon was the principal speaker at the afternoon meeting. Governor Laffoon indicated that he would not propose any kind of a tax measure in the next legislature. He said that although he was called the chief executive, his power was limited to the granting of pardons and the appointment of Kentucky Colonels. He said that it is his belief that there are too many departments in the state government, and he is going to ask the next General Assembly to pass a budget law so that the state may live within its income.

Round table discussions held late Tuesday afternoon took up various problems of the state. Representative Kelly J. Francis, Stanford, presided.

A banquet was held at the Lafayette hotel Tuesday night at which Mr. Belknap presided. Short speeches were made by Doctor McVey, State Auditor J. Dan Talbott, Attorney General Bailey P. Wootton. (Continued on Page Four)

2. No student is officially pledged to any fraternity until he has signed a pledge registration card and filed it with the Dean of Men.

3. In the event that it is desired to break a pledge, on the part of the pledgee or the part of the fraternity, such action, and the reason for such action, shall be recorded by the pledge, or the president of the fraternity, on the pledge registration card.

4. Students who have been pledged to a fraternity and have been released from pledge, either by their own action or by that of the fraternity, are not eligible to be pledged to another fraternity until 30 days after the date of their release, as recorded on their pledge registration card.

A committee which was appointed to draw up registration cards for fraternity pledges will confer with Dean Jones, and will report at the next meeting. The committee is composed of Dick Boyd, Bill Gotschall, and Ned Turnbull.

SPEND A REAL CHRISTMAS

The rapidly approaching holiday season affords students an opportunity to render a service which they doubtless are especially qualified to render. Needless to relate, there is a scarcity of money everywhere with college men and women sharing their part of that lack of currency. Taking part in the singing of Christmas carols, aiding the various welfare societies in the distribution of food and clothing during the holidays and other corporal works of mercy, will ease your conscience and make you feel that you have done what you could for your fellow men in a time when the uniting of all persons in a common cause is the only means of saving life.

If you have followed a precedent of spending a sizeable sum of money in the purchasing of presents for friends, relatives and classmates, at Christmas time, it would not be amiss to offer the suggestion that this practice enjoy the well-known "cut" this year in order to make way for the use of that money in providing the necessities of life for persons who are less fortunate than your fellow students and friends. Many students, boasting that they never do this sort of thing, are not fooling any other person save themselves. We have found it to be a fact that the majority of our fellow collegians are only too glad to help a worthy cause whenever the opportunity presents itself.

This year, because of the prevalent economic conditions, those students living in other states and distant communities, will not return home for the Christmas vacation. In case that you are one of this group, by all means do not idly away your time during the free days but rather make it a point to seek some source wherein you may lend a willing hand and glad heart in alleviating the sufferings of the many unfortunates. The Lexington welfare associations will be sincerely appreciative of any small donation or service that you might see fit to give.

Each year the Pitkin club in conjunction with the campus Y. M. and Y. W. C. A., sponsors a Christmas party at Lincoln school for the boys and girls of that institution who through economic circumstances are denied the pleasures and privileges enjoyed by more fortunate youngsters. Those students who have aided in the distribution of toys and candy each year at the school have been brought to the realization that such a service is indeed worthwhile and most commendable. It is a source of much satisfaction to these students to see the smile of joy upon the faces of the youngsters as they receive the simple presents given them.

Think these things over, ask yourselves if it would not be a Christian act to do the things suggested. We are confident that each student with the available time will do his share in bringing joy to the hearts of less fortunate persons during the Christmas season, the celebration of the birth of Him who smiles upon those who take care of His children.

WRITE HOME

While carrying on your college activities—classes, dances, fraternity or sorority meetings, bridges and teas, football and basketball games, and even occasional study hours, how often do you remember to write to the folks back home?

We hatch up petty excuses about not having time, and ease our conscience by saying, "Oh well, mother understands."

Yes, it is true, she does. She has to. Long years of serving us have taught her that we are ungrateful beings; that we expect much and offer little. Through all the journey from babyhood to manhood or womanhood, she has stood by, has worked and sacrificed that our ways might be easier. Now the time has come, she realizes, with a secret but unselfish pang, that she must remain in the background while we go forth to fight our battles alone. So, mother understand and forgives all.

And dad? "The old man?" Oh, we say he never expects us to write unless we want a check or something. It is too often the case that we never come right down to the realization that dad has as deep a love for us as mother, however, much it may be covered by a harder exterior.

These are hard days for mother and dad. Just when they had a little money saved up to take that trip they had so long planned, along came the crash and the bank closed. So dad is working harder than ever now, and mother too. With us in college they are having a hard pull making ends meet.

Let's write that letter tonight, if nothing more than a few lines to let them know that all goes well and that you are thinking about them. It's such a little task—may seem to mean little to you, but so much to them.

HOBBY GROUPS

Each girl on the campus has an opportunity to fulfill her interests by the various hobby groups under the guidance of the Young Woman's Christian association. As soon as the girl's interest is found, she is placed in the group or groups which suit her best.

There are hobby groups suited for every interest. They include music, art, books, contract bridge, tap and ballroom dancing, knitting, astronomy, and explanatory swimming lessons. If you are interested in one of these groups but do not know how to accomplish your desires, you can soon learn by attending the weekly meetings of the groups. Most of the meetings are held in the Women's building.

The music group besides enjoying each other's music, assists the Social Service group in giving programs at the Reform school, the Veteran's hospital, and other institutions. The Y. W. C. A. is to be commended for this addition work which they are accomplishing.

C. W. A.

The formation of the Civil Works Administration in Lexington and in the entire nation had been an immediate help to all those who were unemployed. In this city alone it meant the employing of 1,500 persons on various jobs which could be done with little or no outlay for materials. Wages paid are above the average, being 45 cents an hour for unskilled labor, and $1.10 an hour for skilled workmen. The work week is 30 hours. This great plan will mean that families who were formerly dependent upon charity will now be able to pay their own way. It will be a much happier Christmas for all concerned because those of us who are fortunate enough to have jobs will feel that at least everyone is taken care of. From the purely economic side, the C. W. A. is a big help to all business. The payment of $15,000 a week in Lexington, or possibly more, should certainly be a welcome aid to the business world. It is true that this work will only last until about the middle of February, but by that time, the Public Works administration should be able to take up those who remain unemployed.

But what has all this to do with the college student? The answer is that it affects all of us since we are future citizens, but particularly because a part of the C. W. A. work is being given to the students of the University. The announcement was recently made that about 15 students of this institution would be given work on C. W. A. projects. This, to many students, will mean a chance to remain in school another semester. The factor that should be closely watched is that no one who does not actually need the work should be aided. This is a good opportunity for those who really need the assistance. Another phase of national recovery which is of interest to college people is the National Re-employment Service set up by the government to find positions for those who desire them. It is a nation-wide plan and therefore the chances of securing employment after graduation through this plan, are greatly increased.

MUZZLING THE PRESS

What will be the consequences if an attempt by Gen. Smedley Johnson and his cohorts to muzzle the press in this country is successful? Who will suffer as a result of proposed censorship by licensing of newspapers? Why should a few individuals seek to revoke the privilege of free speech, prevalent since the drawing up of the Magna Charta in 1216?

If restraint is imposed upon the press, in an effort to suppress news that should be printed, the masses become suspicious immediately. General Johnson evidently does not realize the faith which the average newspaper reader has in his particular publication, whether it be a metropolitan journal or an impoverished four-page weekly.

Censorship, if imposed upon the press, will affect every newspaper in America, regardless of size or prestige. Such a step would tend to incite revolution by these publications, and by their readers. The average reader looks to his newspaper for information, honest opinion, and discussions upon which to base his own attitude toward governmental and other functions.

If a government conceals facts, that government is likely to meet with difficulty. Intelligent endorsers of governmental policies welcome adverse, as well as constructive criticism. They realize that there is no shorter route to truth than through the ramparts of bias, and that the newspaper is an invaluable ally, a powerful organization far reaching in its influence.

Freedom of the press must be preserved. However, as Senator Schulte, Democratic congressman from Indiana, points out, there are certain instances when it is deemed inadvisable to publish information. When questions concerning the welfare of a whole people are being considered by legislative bodies, publication of their actions may be detrimental if made known. Never has a newspaper violated its privilege in this respect.

Persons who claim the right to impose censorship, and thus enslave the press, pay poor compliment to the discernment and intelligence of readers. These individuals who seek to gain control of the people's desires will find that they are coping with a mighty foe, and one which can not easily be vanquished. Unquestionably, their only alternative is cooperation with the press, if their own ends are to be attained.

Jest Among Us

It is claimed that some persons can converse fluently in 23 different languages, but we uninspired college students do doggedly well if we speak our own correctly.

Why should we waste time and money by going to college when we can sit in a barber shop for a half hour, and be thoroughly enlightened on every subject?

Our nominee for the hard-luck crown is the fellow who has classes all day long, with the exception of one—at convocation hour.

We hope that Owens were successful in their sale but it would indeed be a bizarre bazaar if we could afford to buy anything.

NIGHT SOLILOQUY

I lie alone tonight,
my face turned to the sky
where a hidden moon is sewing thin,
white lace
along the border of a sombre cloud;
she will come out in a little while,
proud of her handiwork,
perhaps to smile impersonally at me
before she goes about her task again.

I find it hard
to keep my wayward mind on this:
the unseen moon,
which should be bright and full tonight,
will soon be visible.

And if I stop my vigil for a while,
my thoughts drop back into their
black abyss,
telling me that cloud-bespattered
skies
and silver moons that rise in them
can offer brief escapes, at best,
can soothe, perhaps, but never heal
the jagged wound of loneliness
that gapes across my breast.

—LOIS FRAZAR.

CONSTANCY

I have seen the wanton tulips swing
Their scarlet lanterns over emerald
grass
And passed them by, but I can never pass
By bluebells without hoping they will ring.

Staring red carnations leave my heart
Almost as calm as if I had not seen,
But violets demurely hid in green
Can hold me till I hardly can depart.

So, beloved one, it is with you
Who never startled me with scarlet fire
That burned but lit no answering desire
In me and left me cool when it was through.

As long as bold carnations in the sun
Can please me less than violets, by far,
And bluebells are more sweet than tulips are,

Then I shall love you best, beloved one.

—LOIS FRAZAR.

BOOK REVIEW

FLUSH, A Biography — Virginia Woolf.

Ostensibly this is a biography of a small, but interesting, spaniel of Victorian England. Indeed, the first chapter is consumed by an account of the origin of the breed, its characteristics, and the early life of "Flush" before Wimpole Street became aware of his existence. The book becomes more and more a dog's eye view of the Barretts and Brownings. Probably this was inevitable and not necessarily undesirable. Mrs. Woolf has endeavored to put herself in the position of the dog, as it were, and record for us his various impressions of life, men, and manners.

Undoubtedly Flush has been fortunate in having for his biographer such a talented and distinguished author as Mrs. Woolf. She has taken the little that is known of Elizabeth Browning's spaniel and woven it all into a pleasant, if not always completely coherent, whole.

In the notes to the book Mrs. Woolf cites her sources and authorities, and, while admitting their inadequacy, attempts to justify her course. She has taken her material from poems of Mrs. Browning, her letters, and letters of Miss Mitford, the first owner of Flush. Whenever authorities are obscure or silent on a point which Mrs. Woolf is trying to make, she simply imagines what might have taken place, always, to be sure, within the realm of probability.

The small volume contains three illustrations, a picture of Flush, one of Miss Mitford, and one of Mrs. Browning.

If you do not require authentic details in a biography, you should enjoy spending a few hours in the Browning Room reading this biography of "Flush." Perhaps you will gain a new conception of the personalities of the Barretts and the Brownings—and don't overlook Wilson.

Art Is Aid to Engineers

Courses in Art, at First Termed Foolish, Are of Great Value to Mechanical Minds

By FLORENCE MARY KELLEY

Why should an engineer take art? This is a question that is frequently discussed on the campus. What good could it possibly do him? Yet all senior engineers are required to take art.

Of course, most engineers look on art as unimportant as the engineer has been trained in the technical fields and wonders why art has any bearing on his work. Engineers have in their course, in comparison to many engineering schools, a laid emphasis on the cultural courses. Four years of English, for example is required of the engineer.

When I interviewed some of the seniors of the Engineering college, I found that most of them thought that before taking art they thought that they would be shown how "a flying buttress blended gracefully into oblivion" or something sissy like that. But after taking it they realized that art is nothing like that.

The engineers do not take art to learn to paint masterpieces and such. They do not take art to even learn to draw, but art is to help them to see or observe clearly, and to know how to combine this with what they know.

Mr. E. W. Rannels, head of the art department, states that over half of the students are definitely interested in the art course. Also he said that the senior engineer can actually learn as much in the two weeks art course as the regular art student learns in one semester.

It is the purpose of the engineer to create structures to serve the purposes of man, as for instance, bridges to connect great cities over streams of magnitude; build tunnels over such places as the North and East rivers in New York; erect skyscrapers like the Chrysler building in New York; build ornate hotels like the Palmer House in Chicago; produce machine tools of infinite processes; construct buses, automobiles and trucks. In fact, the engineer is responsible for the building of all the machinery including electrical, steam, gas, and that myriad of machines that are used in industrial processes.

It would be a pity for humanity to be compelled to live with ugly things all of the time. Nature is so prolific in her expressions of beauty; why should not man-made things be beautiful? The engineer's training, therefore, should involve not only the systematic study of the science of stresses meeting forces, but it should be arranged to give to the engineer as fine an appreciation of beauty as possible. Not many engineering schools have recognized the necessity of putting into the engineering curriculum some specific art studies but the University of Kentucky has done so. A great artist once said, "Learning to draw is learning to see." So the work in art given to the engineer is for the purpose of first training him to see beauty, then, if possible, stimulating him to create beauty.

The world at large knows very little about the great amount of time and effort that is being spent in making man-made things beautiful; for example, the director of sculpture at the University of Michigan is the designer and certainly the critic of every line that enters into the Chrysler, Dodge, Plymouth, and DeSoto cars. The radiator cap on the Dodge, for example, is one of the creations of this Mr. Spaulding. If we look about the world of man-made things we must admit that as a rule beauty enters very largely into each final item of construction. For example, the mix master, kitchen utensil, is a thing of beauty, although its principal purpose is to whip cream.

A few years ago at the power show in New York, the publicity director at this great exhibition of machinery complained that he was not able to find inspiration and stories about the show. F. Paul Anderson, who happened to be in New York at the time, was asked by Derrill Hart, an intimate friend of the publicity director, if he would help him out. Dean Anderson took this gentleman into the Grand Central Palace in New York and stood him before an exhibit of pumps.

Dean Anderson asked him what there was about the exhibit that appealed to him in particular and he said he did not know. He was then asked if there was anything ugly in the way of lines in these pumps, to which he replied no. Dean Anderson then remarked that the impelling motive back of every exhibit of machinery in the Grand Central Palace was that of creating beauty for the efficiency of machines which has been pretty well taken care of by the engineer for a good many years. The publicity director said, "I see the point."

The next morning there appeared in one of the New York papers a story about the Power show, in double column, and heading this story there were two half-tones side by side, one a steam pump and the other the Venus de Milo.

Recently, at a meeting of the deans of the Land Grant colleges, held in Chicago, this question of teaching art to engineers was presented to the engineering deans assembled by Dean Anderson. It was the consensus of opinion that although this process had not been the practice in engineering schools throughout the country, it was a decided advance in engineering curricula.

Roamin' the Rialto

By BEN BLACK

"Penthouse," a melodrama, which, despite some inevitable old elements, manages to be entertaining, is being shown at the Kentucky this week end. The plot has suspense in plenty; there is swift action in abundance; and the characters have handled this story of Arthur Somers Roche very well.

The story concerns the conflict in the heart of Jackson Durant (Warner Baxter) between the society girl, Sue Leonard (Martha Sleeper) and the gangster's moll, Gertie Waxed (Myrna Loy). To round out the story there are adventures with gangsters and whatnot, and a good murder is committed. Mae Clark and Phillips Holmes do good work; and Nat Pendleton, George E. Stone, and C. Henry Gordon add fireworks.

Jack Holt plays his typical role of the big, strong, silent hero in his latest picture, "The Wrecker," which came to the Ben All yesterday and is being shown through today.

Holt is cast in the role of the boss of a house wrecking gang. He and George Stone, a junk man become friends. Then he has business relations with Stone's employer, Sidney Blackmer. Everything goes along fine until Blackmer turns home-wrecker and steals Jack's wife, Genevieve Tobin. It all gets pretty sentimental, and then Sidney and Genevieve are trapped in a ramshackle building during an earthquake. Of course Jack gets her and she and it all turns out O.K.

attraction at the Strand, presents Will Rogers in one of his finest roles. The film is a screen adaptation of the novel, "The Last Adam," by James Gould Cozzens.

In this picture, Rogers has the role of a whimsical country doctor, who is a sort of guardian angel and father-confessor to the neighborhood in which he lives. He holds the changing community together and laments the conditions which turn his home from a "town to live in" to "a place on the highway." During all of this time he has to fight against the petty prejudices of the community; and, between time, he attends to his light practices. The role gives him ample opportunity to philosophize in his laconic, keen style of humor.

ONK DAY

Today I have been happy. All the day
I held the memory of you, and wore its laughter with the dancing light of the spray.
And sawed the sky with tiny clouds of love.
And sent you following the white waves
of the sea.
And crowned your head with fancies,
nothing worth.
May buds from that old dust of misery,
Being glad with a new foolish quiet mirth.
So lightly I played with those dark memories.

Just as a child, beneath the summer skies,
Plays hour by hour with a strange shining stone,
For which the knows not towns were fired of old,
And love has been betrayed, and murder
done,
And great kings turned to a little bitter mould.

Y. W. C. A. Christmas Parties

The Dutch Lunch club will celebrate the last meeting before the Christmas holidays with a Christmas party today at noon in the recreation room of Patterson hall.
A special menu has been planned,
and decorations will be in holiday colors. Patricia Park is in charge of the program.

The program for the meeting will be the singing of carols, led by Harlowe Dean, student at Henry Clay high school, who has sung before the club. A Christmas gift will be presented to Mrs. Ida Tilton, who has had charge of preparing meals for the club this semester.

A Christmas tree and red candles will furnish the decorations, which were planned by Elizabeth Warren and Dorothy Elam. Surprise favors will be given to the 100 girls who are expected to attend.

Christmas open house was held by the music group of the Y. W. Wednesday afternoon in the Women's building. Members of the Y. W.
and women members of the staff
and faculty enjoyed an afternoon of Christmas music and fun.

Guests decorated the Christmas tree, and the whole lower floor of the building, using red candles,
evergreens, and holly to decorate.
The custom of decorating is an old English one called "The Hanging of the Green." After the decorating, a program of Christmas music was presented by the members of the music group. The tea table was decorated with red candles in brass candle sticks, with brass plates for the cakes. A large bowl of fruit was placed in the center of the table. Refreshments consisted of tea, cakes, and red and green candy.
Mrs. Lebus, chaperon of the Women's building, poured tea.

"Why the Chimes Rang Out" was the title of a Christmas story told by Augusta Roberts. Singing of Christmas carols by the guests completed the program.

Members of the music group on the program and assisting in entertaining were Elizabeth Hardin, chairman of the music group; June Bollinger, Eva Mae Nunneley, Virginia Robinson, Lois Robinson,
Martha Pugett, Betty Moffett, Clara
Innes, in charge of the program;
June Bollinger, Alice Wigglesworth,
Mary Lillian Sellers, Mildred Smoot,
Fanny Blaine Rutherford, and Alma Moffett.

Girls at the Greendale Reform school will be entertained this afternoon by the members of the Social Service group of the Y.W.C.A.
There will be a Christmas tree from which each girl will receive a present. The program will be as follows: piano numbers, Sarah Whittinghill; tap dance, Pat Tressler;
story, "Why the Chimes Rang Out," Augusta Roberts, and Christmas carols, led by Reva Kemp.

Sigma Chi Dance

Lambda Lambda of Sigma Chi will entertain from 9 till 12 tonight with a house dance at the chapter house. The night club idea will be carried out with a floor show in connection with the dance. A supper course will be served and dancing will be enjoyed.

The chaperons will be Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Foster, and Miss Margie
McLaughlin. Music for the dance

Woodward and his orchestra.

Scandal Snickerings

By "DOC"

Since our contemporary Cameron
Coffman has been so kind to enlighten us in our mistakes, we wish to thank you Cameron for the charming way you put it....But we all make mistakes....You too....
Triangle Thorton Lewis has been pinned, or else Independent Florence Kelly has been wearing his pin to one dance that we know of ....The reason that he denied this statement was we suppose he does not want the girl who is wearing his engagement ring to hear of his TWO-TIMING. His pin has been out twice since he was initiated....
He, however, is to be married during the holidays, so he says....It seems to us that Thorton is having a terrible time making up his mind
and keeping his engagements straight....When questioned, Miss Kelly's firm statement was that she is NOT engaged to Thorton, but she did have his pin.

Also Cameron said that Zeta
"Babe" Martin is pinned to Sigma-ky Erwin Faber....The lady says she is not pinned....She ought to know! She also did not go to a nite club....she couldn't get permission from the proper authorities.

We did hear that Kappasig
"Tony" Livingston was hitting the ceiling when he returned to the house after his 11 o'clock class Friday. We have discovered or uncovered a new member of the "I can't take it club"....But nevertheless, someone suggests that he would go over big as a train caller ....That's something to occupy your time during the Xmas holidays
when you won't have the frat brothers to yell at....However, you blamed the wrong alumni, "Tony."

One very budding romance which has been overlooked for some time is that between Independent Louise Otterback and Alphasamarho
Nevin Gobel.

While speaking of romances,
which seems to be the season for them....for here's another....that between Nancy Legrew and Dick Benton.

While Deltachi Tony Land was looking for a microbe he found a bacteriologist. She is Margaret Ingram and has been pinned for some time.

What Sigeep takes the entire chapter with him when he goes out on a date?

How does this Thetachi from Alabama rate all the open houses?

An Alphasgam pledge was trying to teach Perry...o an to play a piano; after a while he leaned over and kissed her....she replied when he straightened up, "Why stop now,
I like that."

See and hear (mostly hear):— Did see in the society column that "Babe" Kimbrough was one of the chaperons at the Kappasig dance
last Saturday nite....How does it feel, Babe, to be so grown up....
Was told that Sigeep Johnny Dorsey makes an ideal chaperon after his date goes to bed....Leslie Betts fell out of a rumble seat and broke his ankle....Have heard that Alphadeltaieta alumni Sadie Farmer
does like Coney Islands with onions
in the wee hours of the morning....
Alphasdeltaieta pledge Queenie
Thompson uses baby talk....to girls as well as to the boys....She is another who has so many loves that she can't keep track of them all....
Alphasdeltaieta Delmar Adams
sent a strange man up to the third floor Thanksgiving night of Boyd hall to get Esther Gordon....We all want to know what was in the envelope that Helen Rich left for Bob Prichard after the Tulane game.

PEPY'S DIARY

Sunday—Did hear that Phideltis
NORRIS JOLLY, RED DAVIS,
LITTLE FINLEY have established the quaint custom of kissing their cousins in the corner drug. Also BEANS PARIS was heard to say that he knows where the Blue and White can get a good hot FID-LER. Did drop around to the Kappa house where E.C.O.V.E.L.L.
BRYANT did give CLAY McKEE
the cold shoulder with great fineness.

Monday—Did go to the Commons
at the third hour. When the Squatters had noised in, it was as crowded as the S. A. E. house after rush week. Among those present were HARGIS HUGHES, the HARDIN
brothers, CHARLES ZIMMER, TOMMY FISHER, JEAN CAMP-BELL, CAROLYN JOHNS. Did meditate upon the charms of the Paris CLARKE BAR, and wondered whether she will choose FRANK LEBUS or JOE ARVIN, both of whom are competing for her favors.

Tuesday—Did lie awake and meditate upon the beauties of this spring-like morning and in the process did miss my morning classes.
To the Phidelt annex for lunch
where I was invited to participate in a game of straws with NANCY DYER, and where I did hear JOHN
L. "PANTY-WAIST" DAVIS call JUMPY JOE GAITSKILL "sucker"
for trying to glad-eye her behind
the eyes of WALT HILLENMEY-ER, P. P. DOUGLASS, TOMMY RILEY, DOUG PARRISH, and LABE JACKSON. Did see DOSSET REID, who looked bored and looked it well, talking to his lady friend of the brown roadster. As well as HAGGARD, who was explaining how he beat the Cincy golf team
last year.

Later to the Alpha Gam house where I did know no one. Then to the Chi Omega round-house where MARTHA NEBLETT was delighted to see me. ALLIE ROBERTSON pretended to joy in my presence.

Intramural football is drawing to a close with the completion of the semi-finals yesterday. This is written before the semi-final game between the Sigma Nu's and the Sigma Chi's, and the winner between these two strong outfits is a tossup. They both have fine ball clubs for intramural squads. The Sigma Chi's are hard driving and a fine defensive aggregation. The Sigma Nu's will outweigh their foes but whichever is victorious, they will be a worthy opponent for the S. A. E. team, which was the victor in the other semi-final contest.

The boxing and wrestling finals are scheduled for Monday night and every bout should be worth the price of admission. Such outstanding fighters as Shepherd, Lysowski, Wildan Thomas, Bob Butler and Bill Butler, all independents; and George Forsythe, Sigma Chi, and John Drury, ATO, who have had plenty of previous experience, should give the fans an hour or so of rare entertainment. The only drawback we see is that the bouts will go only three rounds, which is hardly time for the boys to get warmed up.

Tomorrow afternoon the final football match is scheduled on Stoll field and it will be a good game and everyone who can is urged to come out and support the intramural department. Football was reinstated as an intramural sport at the University after several years' layoff and if it is not properly supported, will not be continued next year.

Saturday night the Cats are expected to meet their first real competition in the University of Cincinnati Bearcats, who will exhibit their wares in the Alumni gym. Early this week, the Bearcats humiliated the Transylvania Pioneers by the overwhelming score of 72-21. Even though the Pioneers are not so strong, the tremendous score piled up by the winners displays their immense strength. The Cats will have a hard night's work cut out for them and will have to use their entire bag of tricks if they expect to win. The visitors are rangy, and are crack shots from all positions on the floor, according to the Trans boys who performed against them. They play the Georgetown Bengals tonight at Cincinnati and the relative strength of the Wildcats and Bearcats may be gained by comparing the scores of the respective games.

The only trouble with the Big Blue in the Georgetown game, was their inability to hit the basket. Their fine average in the first game of the season was not evident against the Tigers. Perhaps the tight Georgetown defense had something to do with their shots, or perhaps they just had an off night. We believe the latter was the case, which could be very possible as every team in every sport occasionally has off-moments.

At a recent meeting of the coaches, officials and other attaches of the Western Conference in Chicago, several changes in the football rules were advocated. There seemed to be a general opinion that the offense need pepping up, especially in the middle west.

The return of the on-sides kick, which permits a man on the team which kicks to recover the kick, if he stands behind the kicker, was advocated. Such a rule would make games free scoring, which would please the fans and pep up the gate receipts. Another old rule, which has been dead for several years and is to be returned is the recovery of offensive fumbles by the defensive team, and attempting to gain with them. This rule, which was tabooed in 1930 would give a weak offensive team a better chance against a team which is superior in offensive power.

KITTEN NETTERS PLAY PARIS TONIGHT

Prepping somewhat strenuously for their two forthcoming tussles this week, the Kitten hardwood court aspirants have displayed a marked improvement in their offensive and defensive work.

Tonight the basketball fans of Paris, will be allowed the privilege of seeing the yearling quintet in action when they travel to Paris to play the Paris High School Greyhounds.

Tomorrow night the Kittens journey to Covington, Ky., to engage the Covington Y. M. C. A. basketballers.

With the little polishing off that was done Thursday afternoon the Kittens should not have any trouble in coming out on the long end of both of these games.

A game that was to be played with a local athletic club last Tuesday night was cancelled.

At the Wednesday morning session, at which James Thompson, Paris, presided, Harper Gatton, superintendent of the Madisonville schools, and former director of the Kentucky Relief commission, spoke on "Relief Problems." Public debts were discussed by Clifford W. Ham, director of the Atlantic City Survey commission. He said that the situation in Kentucky was not nearly as serious as that in some other states. George T. Holmes, secretary of Kentucky Tax Reduction association, addressed the group on "Economy in State and Local Government." The Kentucky Tax Reduction association is now making a study of the fiscal affairs of six typical counties and will present the report to the next legislature.

Assistant Attorney General Brown explained, "The Mechanics of Preparing a Bill for Passage in the General Assembly" in a luncheon talk at the University Commons. He warned the new legislators of some of the tricks used to pass legislative measures.

At the closing meeting Wednesday afternoon, a resolution was passed endorsing the recovery program of President Roosevelt. The resolution was introduced by Senator Clarence E. Nickell, Nicholasville, who was authorized to send a copy of it to the President.

Following the adjournment of the general meeting, round table discussions were held on education, led by Senator Arch Hamilton, Lexington; relief measures, led by Senator-elect Stanley Mayer, Louisville; and public debts, conducted by Senator Ray B. Moss, Pineville.

SHOP SIGHTS

From the artistic sousease of Kaufman's comes a muffler for every purpose. There are the high-colored ones to be worn with polo coats. There are those like a satin figured white crepe with a Persian border and multi-colored fringe, which are worn with blue or oxford gray overcoats. And for evening there is that muffler which thrills a feminine heart, a white crepe with a monogram design in black.

BEARCATS PLAY BIG BLUE FIVE SATURDAY

Headed by Carl Austing, sophomore center, the University of Cincinnati Bearcats will invade the stronghold of the Big Blue tomorrow night in an attempt to get revenge for the 3-0 defeat handed them by the Cats during the past football season.

The Bearcats are coached by Raymond C. "Tag" Brown, former captain of the University of Southern California football team, who has molded a team that is capable of high scoring, as the 73-22 score they dealt Transylvania indicates.

Austing will be ably assisted by Grandie and Summerville, crack forwards. These three boys scored 40 of the 73 points scored by the Bearcats last Monday night against the Pioneers. The probable starting lineup for the Cincinnati tomorrow night will be Grandie Smith, center; Summerville at forwards; Austing at center; and Ballard Frame, or Yeager at guards. Hitting will be ready to step on the floor should anyone of the guards fail.

The lineup for the Wildcats will find DeMolsey at center, Lawrence, Jerome or Tucker at forwards, and Anderson and Davis at guards. Potter, Lewis, Settle, and Edwards will be ready if needed.

This will be the last home game before Christmas and a large crowd is expected to see the Bearcats and the Wildcats "claw" it out on the hardwood of the Alumni gymnasium tomorrow night. A great deal of rivalry is developing between these two schools and a hard game is expected by both teams.
